

Next Steps:

Notifying Close Contacts After You Are Diagnosed with COVID-19

Who should I notify?

After being diagnosed with COVID-19, determine the time period you were infectious and could have exposed others to COVID-19:

If you have symptoms, you were able to spread COVID-19 two days before your first symptoms started.

If you do not have symptoms, you were able to spread COVID-19 two days before your positive COVID-19 test was taken.

>> Notify everyone you had close contact with during this time period.

Who is a “close contact?”

Anyone who had the following interactions with you while you were infectious are close contacts:

Direct physical contact
(for example, a hug, kiss, handshake)

Being within 6 feet of you for 15 minutes or more over a 24-hour period

Contact with respiratory secretions
(for example, coughed or sneezed on, sharing a drinking glass, other personal items)

Living with, caring for, or staying the night with you

What do I tell my close contacts?

- All close contacts, regardless of vaccination status, should get tested for COVID-19 at least 5 days after exposure and self-monitor for symptoms for 10 days after exposure.
- Close contacts who are not up to date on current vaccinations should quarantine at home for 5 days and wear a well-fitting mask when around others for an additional 5 days.
- Close contacts who are up to date on current vaccinations do not need to quarantine but should get tested and wear a well-fitting mask around others for 10 days after exposure.
- If a close contact develops any symptoms of COVID-19, they should isolate from others and get tested immediately, regardless of vaccination status.

What if I want to remain anonymous but still notify my close contacts?

There is an online tool called “Tell Your Contacts” that you can use to send an anonymous text or email notification.

To send notifications from this tool:

1. Visit tellyourcontacts.org.
2. Select email or text notification.
3. Enter your contacts’ information and exposure date.
4. Select a pre-written message or customize your own. You do not need to enter your name.
5. Send your message.
